Has been responsible for much of human mortality. Men and women die by thousands in an Indian famine, not because of lack of food but because of lack of food but because because of lack of food but because caste superstition prevents them from accepting it. Even in America there are still to be found those who believe that healing herbs lack virtue unless gathered during certain phases of the moon.

The great foe of superstition is science. Every year science increases the territory of the natural at the expense of the supernatural.

achieves its successful cures because it is a scientific preparation originated by a scientific man.
It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, purifies the blood and establishes the body in sound health.

As the writer of the following letter says, "It is the best thing for nervousness and for a weak run-down condition that anybody would want. It gives a person new life and new blood."

THE INAUGURATION.

As the time for the second inauguration of William McKinley as President draws near it is apparent that the forthcoming celebration will eclipse any heretofore of a like character and Mr. McKinley will witness the largest throng of strangers that has ever been entertained in Washington. It is esti-mated that over a hundred thousand wated that over a numered thousand visitors will witness the inaugural ceremonies, the procession and the fireworks, attend the inaugural ball, etc. Almost every svillable room in Wishington bas already been engaged, hotels will be taxed to their utmost hotels will be taxed to their utmost capacity, u ilizing halls, parlors, writing-rooms, and, in fact, every possible space where a cot can be put. All the public halls, armories and a great many public buildings will be turned into boarding and lodging houses for a week or ten days. Military organizations, clubs, civic organizations, college students, numbering in all about thirty thousand men, will take part in the procession. Along Pennsylvania avenue cession. Along Pennsylvania avenue people will assemble in stands, erected for this purpose only, in windows, on nousetops and sidewalks to witness the greatest parade of the sge. The stands which bave been erected for this purpose will accommodate, it is estimated, 50 000 people, and twice that number will witness the parade from the walks on both sides of the avenue, the state is no cossible way to form while there is no possible way to form gathered elsewhere along the line of

The total number of soldiers listed to

The total number of soldiers listed to parade at this date is, regul rs, 3,600, and 8 ate militia, 21,000. Almost every regiment or every State representation will bring several bands along, and almost every civic organization will be accompanied by a musical organization.

The events leading up to the inauguration of the President are most interesting. The President are most interesting. The President are most interesting. The President are will leave their respective resilences on the morning of March 4th, the V ce-President-elect going to the White House, where, in conjunction with a joint committee of Congress, he will take a carriage, and all will proceed in their respective places in the ceed in their respective places in the troops and the National Guard of the District of Columbia. The escort will be under the command of General Francis V. Green, and will consist of United States troops, marines, and allors, and a troop of cavalry from the President's own State. The escort will then proceed along the avenue to and around the north side of the Capitol and to the east front, when the pres dential party will proceed to the Senate chember and patticipate in the inaugura ion ceremonies. At high noon, on the east portico of the Capital, before thousands of citizens, the noo, on the east portico of the Capi-ol, before thousands of citizens, the President will have administered to him, by the Chief Justice of the United States, Hon. Meiville W. Fuller, the oath prescribed for this occasion, which confirms him as President. Preceding this event, the President pro tempore of the Senate, William P. Frye, of Maine, will administer the oath of of-Maine, will administer the oath of of-fice to the Vice-President-elect, Theo-dore Roosevelt, in the Senate chamber. All the newly-elected Senators will at this time be sworn in after the President has been sworn in and has concluded his inaugural address, the procession will star from the east front of the Capitol, and for hours will be heard the ramp, tramp, tramp of the soldiers.

The ball, which takes place on the evening of inauguration day, will be held in the Pension building, which has been used for the same purpose four times heretofore. The building is well

The decorations of the ball-room will be beautiful, and embrace an artistic combination of plants and flowers, the combination of plants and flowers, the effect of which will be beightened by a oackground of gold bunting, and the delecate rays of thousands of small electric bulbs. The floral decoration are given the place of prominence, and then the bunting and electrical displays by subordinating the bunting and electrical displays to the floral decorations, the beauty of the latter is enhanced, and the asme can be said of the costumes of the ladies, the colors of which tumes of the ladies, the colors of which are frequently nullified by the dazzing effect or many lights. The President will be escorted by the chairman and vice-chairman of the inauguration vice-chairman of the inauguration committee from the Execu ive Mansion to the Pension building, and will there be received by the chairman of the reception committee, Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles, and the members of his committee, and escorted to rooms reserved for him and his party. The President later in the evening will make a tour of the ball-room.

The illumination of the avenue and the fireworks display will be a great feature of the evening entertainment. The avenue will be illuminated by thousands of electric-lights of all size, thousands of electric-lights of all $12.90, ranging from the small incandescent light to arc-lighte. The "Court of Honor," on the avenue, between Fifteenth and Seventeenth streets, will be one grand mass of color. This court will co-sist of pylons, arches, and festooned stands, which will be covered with colored globes, making a sight almost beyond description.

The fireworks displsy will take place on the grounds south of the Executive Mansion, familiarly-known as the "Monument Grounds." This display will consist of serial and set pieces, or photographs of the great statesmen and I rmer Presidents, heroes of the different wars, etc. ferent ware, etc.
